The aim of the workshop was to identify the coastal and maritime heritage and to complete the portal together with local community

Presenters:

Reet Laos (NGO Kihnu Maritime Association) made a first introduction.

Maili Roio introduced the PERICLES project and its aims, especially the ones connected to the island of Kihnu.

Pikne Kama (ENHB) talked about historical natural sacred sites and the monitoring of them in Estonia. As this type of objects are usually important to people in small rural areas of Estonia, we thought it would make people think of the sites they know and that would later give us some information for the portal.

Krista Karro presented the portal and the way it works. In the end of the presentation we started talking to the public and asking for interesting sites for the portal. Krista entered them to the portal.

Results: We could communicate our project and the portal to the local community, which was well-represented in the workshop. However, it was the elderly part of the local community, which means that they possess the knowledge of the local heritage, but they do not have enough skills to use the portal. But we took some contacts and entered some places they mentioned to the portal.
